

The Art of Self-Critiquing: Learn To Objectively Self-Critique and Assess your Work in Progress

SKILL LEVEL: ALL LEVELS

CLASS SIZE: UP TO 16 STUDENTS

DURATION: 1 DAY / 6 HOURS

The ability to self-critique is an under-appreciated skill that all artists should carefully cultivate. Self-critique and self-assessment allow an artist to determine weak areas and enable the development of a self-improvement game plan.

For the self-taught artist, this valuable skill is even more important, as the ability to solicit third-party input may be extremely limited. While we all have the tendency to be our harshest critic, objectivity is the best way to gain true insight on our progress. The more we practice self-critique, the sooner we are able to spot weak areas in our work, and the faster we are able to improve.

Supply List for “Examine, Identify, Evaluate...”

- Bring your camera (cell phone camera and point-and-shoot models acceptable)
- 2 - 3 art pieces, these may be finished or work in progress
- pen and paper
- an inquisitive mind
- $ 5.00 to cover printing cost for handouts and exercise sheets

Instructor will supply:

- handouts
- worksheets

Organizer needs to supply:

- table and chairs (1 table for two participants is sufficient)